The Zodiac

- The Zodiac is a band of stars that falls within 9° on either side of the ecliptic.
- The ecliptic is the apparent path that the Sun and other planets trace out in the sky during the year as they appear to move in the sky in relation to the stars.
- Zodiac is derived from the Latin zōdiacus, from the Greek ζῳδιακός [κόκλος], meaning "band of animals"
- The zodiac is divided into 12 signs of 30° longitude each

The Zodiac Was Born From Observation

- The Ancients observed that person born during certain 30 day periods of the year held similar traits in common.
- They chose a symbol from their natural world and projected it against the starry backdrop of the night's sky

The Solstices and Equinoxes

- Equi-nox – equal night
- The equinoxes are the two days each year that the Sun passes over the equator, generally around March 20 and September 23
- Sol-sistere – sun stands still
- The Summer Solstice generally takes place around June 20 when the Sun is 23.44° north of the equator
- The Winter Solstice generally takes place on December 21 when the Sun is 23.44° south of the equator

The Tropical Zodiac

- The Tropical Zodiac marks the entrance of the Sun into the cardinal or moveable signs
- Aries – March 20
- Cancer – June 20
- Libra – September 23
- Capricorn – December 21

The Precession of the Equinoxes

- Precession refers to a change in the axis of the rotating earth, which wobbles like a top. This causes the equinox to move backwards through the zodiac at a rate of 1° every 72 years, or through one sign of the zodiac every 2,150 years

- The cycle of 25,765 years for the equinox to pass backwards through all twelve signs gives rise to the astrological ages

The Sidereal Zodiac

- The Sidereal Zodiac links the signs of the zodiac to the positions of the constellations.
- This does not account for the fact that Virgo takes up approximately 40° and Cancer 23° of zodiacal longitude

Planets – Musical Tones

- Each Planet expresses a distinct vibration just as each musical note is distinct in its frequency

Signs – Sounding Boards

- Just as the tone of "C" sounds differently on a Piccolo than on a Cello - The "tones" of the Planets express differently according to the Sign in which they fall
- The zodiac is viewed counterclockwise as a circle or cross-section

- “Due to variation in human personality and character, these compartments of the astral body in which the stellar cells are retained are not related to the astral bodies of all people alike. In fact, although the order of sequence is always the same, otherwise there is the greatest difference. For instance, the stellar organization relating to money may, in one person’s astral form be in the neck, may in another person’s astral form be in the stomach, may in another person’s astral form be in the knees, and in still another person’s astral form may be in the feet.”
